

SOUTH FLORIDA BUSINESS JOURNAL

Marriott Stanton South Beach completes $22 million renovation

By Emon Reiser - Digital Producer, South Florida Business Journal
Feb 12, 2018, 2:41pm

Key International has completed the second phase of a multimillion-dollar renovation of the Marriott Stanton South Beach. The Miami-based real estate investment development company added a spa and a restaurant to the resort, and expanded its fitness center.

The 224-room hotel, at 161 Ocean Drive, now has a Japanese restaurant called Azabu, based on New York's Michelin-starred Sushi Azabu New York. The 80-seat eatery serves traditional Japanese dishes, sushi and charcoal-grilled plates. Forty-five people were hired to staff the restaurant.

Azabu at Marriott Stanton South Beach

The new 1,500-square-foot Stanton Spa is managed by NFC Amenity Management. Its services include massages, facials, scrubs, wrap treatments and hot shell therapy using lava shells.

Key International completed the first phase of the hotel's $22 million expansion in January 2017. The initial upgrade included the addition of Lolo's Surf Cantina, for which 53 people were hired. A street-accessible Starbucks at the hotel will reopen in the first quarter of 2018 after its renovation is complete.

Stanton Spa at Marriott Stanton South Beach

The property has 82 employees.

Key International owns and manages hotels under the Marriott, Hilton and InterContinental Hotels Group flags. Its high-profile projects include 1010 Brickell, 400 Sunny Isles and the $250 million expansion and restoration of the Nobu Eden Roc Resort in Miami Beach.

Unique Visitors per Month: 4,158,089

<https://www.bizjournals.com/southflorida/news/2018/02/12/marriott-stanton-south-beach-completes-22m-reno.html>